Dear Richard,

Hello, how are you today? I just received your letter this afternoon, and thought that I'd write back. It's always nice to get mail from someone new.

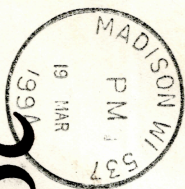

I'd like to get to know you better, but with all of the mail that I get, it's difficult to know who I should respond to. So, in your next letter, would you please send me some really good photo's to help make your letter "stand out in the crowd." You said that you're a bodybuilder, that's good. I'd like to see every unclothed muscular inch of you. I'm allowed to keep any type of photo except polaroid's, so don't take the picture's with a polaroid camera OK.

Well Richard, thank's for writing. I'll be looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Jeff
